

Staying Connected in K-12

The 2018 ISTE Conference was an amazing opportunity to connect and discuss the latest in ed tech with educators from across the U.S.

In June 2018, Kajeet connected with you by conducting a survey exploring mobility in K-12. Here's what we learned from your 530 responses at the show:

CONNECTED COMMUNITY

How are school districts communicating information about ed tech tools with staff, students, and the community?

58% Ongoing communication and feedback

21% Meetings where leadership conveys what's happening

14% Occasional email from someone they barely know at the district level

7% No idea what is going on with ed tech at a district level

TEACHERS CONNECTING DATA WITH STUDENTS

How are school districts using student data?

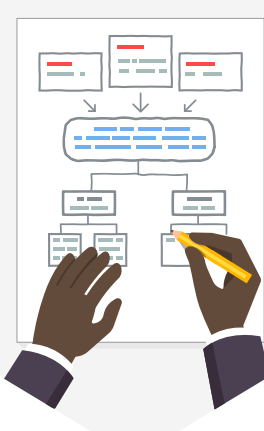

56%

Identify individual student needs

64%

Optimize their curriculum and instruction

4%

Do not use student data at all

CONNECTING STUDENTS WITH TECHNOLOGY

What is the most important reason to have technology in the classroom?

33% To engage students

33% To teach students responsibility

18% To connect students with all learning styles

16% To access the most up-to-date information

CONNECTING STUDENTS OUTSIDE THE CLASSROOM

Are students able to access the resources they need to complete their homework once they leave school?

39% of schools have a 1:1 program where devices go home with the students

21% of schools don't do anything for students without Internet at home
